U. S. Warns Russians: Keep Out Of Americas

U. S. Blasts Khrushchev For Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States denounced Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in blistering language Thursday and warned him to stop trying to foist communism on the Western Hemisphere.

Accused Khrushchev of trying to supplant with a "Bolshevik doctrine" the historic Monroe Doctrine which guards Latin American republics against outside intervention.

Reaffirms Doctrine
In solemn words, approved by President Eisenhower, the State Department reaffirmed U. S. determination to uphold the 173-year-old Monroe Doctrine in the face of Khrushchev's rocket-rattling threats to intervene to help Cuba.

"This naked menace to world peace, brandished so callously by the Soviet leader, reveals the hypocrisy of his protestations in behalf of peace," the department said in a formal statement.

The State Department's reply to comments Khrushchev made at a Kremlin news conference Tuesday added up to one of the most biting indictments leveled at him since the blow-up of the Paris summit conference in mid-May.

To back up what appeared to be a new tough-talk policy, the State Department called off civil aviation talks with the Soviet Union which are due to begin here Monday.

Khrushchev's newest barrage of threats and distortions, the department said, has worsened the international atmosphere to the point where there is no chance for an aviation agreement. A department spokesman said "a suitable time" for rescheduling the talks would depend on Moscow's future conduct.

Ready To Leave
The surprise collapse of the discussion came just as a Soviet delegation was about to leave Moscow, hoping to negotiate for direct Moscow-New York commercial air service by planes of both countries.

The State Department concentrated its 500-word comment mainly on Khrushchev's attack on the Monroe Doctrine.

In pledging to back Cuba in its dispute with the United States, Khrushchev denounced the American naval base at Guantanamo Bay as "sheer iniquity."

"We consider that the Monroe Doctrine has outlived its time, has outlived itself, has died, so to say, a natural death," Khrushchev said.

Striking back at this, the department pictured Khrushchev as seeking to set himself up as a self-appointed judge of what international agreements are binding, even though the Soviet Union is not a party to them.

Covered by Treaty
The right to establish and maintain a naval base in Cuba is spelled out by a treaty. The Monroe Doctrine likewise has been endorsed by the 21 American republics within the framework of the Organization of American States and the 1947 Rio defense pact.

President Monroe laid down his famous doctrine in 1823 in a move to prevent European imperialist powers of that day from jeopardizing the independence of nations in the Western Hemisphere.

Congo Premier Slapped In Face By European

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (AP) — Premier Patrice Lumumba was slapped in the face by an angry European at the airport here Thursday night as he and President Joseph Kasavubu were about to board a plane. Both were taunted by an angry European crowd.

The incident passed without major violence.

The pair then flew off to Stanleyville, where, some reports

U. N. Enlists Volunteers For Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Volunteered African troops were being lined up quickly Thursday under the blue and white U. N. banner to try to stop the Congo's lunge toward anarchy. A force of 2,500 to 3,000 is expected.

Within hours after the Security Council gave him the go-ahead, Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld received offers of contingents from Ghana and Tunisia.

Both were reported ready to move immediately and become the vanguard of a unique peace task force.

Hammarskjöld was reported to have asked the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, Italy and India to supply food and transport.

Food From U. S.
In Newport, R. I., Thursday, President Eisenhower authorized the immediate shipment of 300 tons of flour to the strife-ridden Congo.

The President said the shipments will be flown to Leopoldville and assigned from stocks available in Europe.

Hammarskjöld also named a commander for the new Congo U. N. emergency force and ordered him to take up his duties Sunday. He is Maj. Gen. Carl von Horn of Sweden, now commander of the U. N. truce supervision organization in Palestine.

Von Horn, 57, two years ago succeeded Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, when the latter resigned as truce supervisor to give full time to command of U. N. troops in the Gaza Strip.

Pennsylvania Demo Leaders Chart Course

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pennsylvania Democratic leaders Thursday began charting their campaign to win the state for Sen. John F. Kennedy in November.

The state's 81-vote delegation to the party's national convention cast 68 votes for Kennedy—a pivotal push in putting him over for the presidential nomination on the first ballot.

At a breakfast caucus Thursday Gov. David Lawrence, delegation chairman, told the 162-member group, "We've got our job cut out for us," adding:

"We're going to win with Jack Kennedy, but we're going to have to start working right away."

Rural Skepticism
He spoke in the face of some skepticism from non-city delegates that a Pennsylvania victory for Kennedy might be tough to achieve.

"I'm not sure," said national committeewoman Emma Guffey Miller Wednesday night, when asked if Kennedy could carry the state. She was a holdout for the nomination of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Pennsylvania's convention ballot also gave:

Adlai Stevenson, 7 1/2 votes;
Johnson, 4 votes;
New Jersey Gov. Robert Meyner, 1 1/2 votes.

Mrs. Miller said the cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh would have to produce substantial majorities to offset traditionally Republican rural opposition. She said the task would be extremely difficult in her own rural county of Butler.

Voting, Green
The lively Wednesday night capped three days of activity by Lawrence and Green to attract votes to the Kennedy camp. At a caucus Monday, 64 were committed to the Massachusetts senator.

Two more were switched to Kennedy Tuesday and two more on Wednesday. Lawrence reportedly held in reserve an additional two votes, should Kennedy need them at the end of the roll call.

But Kennedy came through Pennsylvania on the roll call with a tally of 65 3/4 votes. A few minutes later Wyoming put him over the top.

The Pennsylvania delegates then leaped to their feet, almost as one, cheering wildly, standing on their chairs, throwing their red, white and blue Kennedy hats in the air. Even some non-Kennedy supporters joined in the enthusiasm.

Lawrence, who maintained the icy calm of a field marshal throughout the preceding convention activity remained seated. But he permitted himself his first official convention grin.

Delegates — city ward leaders, labor leaders, businessmen — converged on the triangular red, white and blue state standard to shake hands with Lawrence. Finally, he stood to face the delegation, one of the many of which he has been a member since his first convention in 1912.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steel Workers, rushed up, smiling broadly.

"We've got a winner, Dave," McDonald said, pumping Lawrence's arm.

Green, who was the No. 1 man behind Lawrence rallying Pennsylvania delegates for Kennedy, smiled happily. Both he and Lawrence had been under pressure since Tuesday night when 11th-hour jitters seized some members of the contingent. They were fearful Kennedy would miss a first ballot nomination.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark Jr., a Kennedy backer, had urged a "reassessment" of the delegation's support should Kennedy miss first ballot nomination.

Hearing Date Set

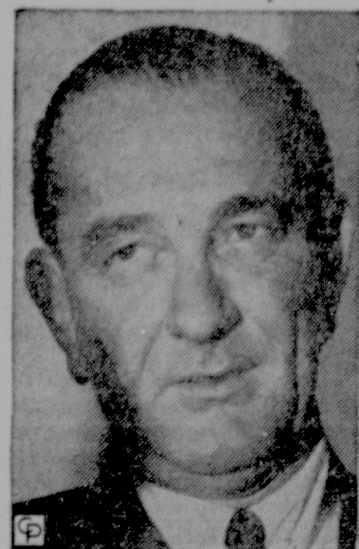

HARRISBURG (AP) — Court proceedings which grew out of state efforts to halt the sale of kangaroo meat have been put on court docket for hearing the week of Oct. 9.

Kennedy Picks Southerner As Running Mate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Democrats Thursday night named Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas by acclamation as their vice presidential nominee.

A motion by Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts that this be done was declared carried on a voice vote although there was also a loud roar of "No's."

Some booing came when Chairman Leroy Collins declared the motion passed.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson

There had been grumbling from ultra liberals when Sen. John F. Kennedy had made known hours earlier that he wanted Johnson for his running mate.

Boos, Then Cheers

Yet moments after the boos there was a whooping ovation when Johnson came onto the platform with his wife, Lady Bird Johnson, by his side.

Johnson got a big hand again by congratulating the delegates on "your decision last night" when they picked Kennedy for the presidential nomination over Johnson's bid.

Johnson pledged he would go down the line in support of Kennedy, serving him in every way he could.

The Massachusetts senator was building a combination aimed to weld party unity for the battle with the Republicans—a New England liberal in the No. 1 spot and a Southerner — or Westerner — with more conservative leanings in the No. 2 spot.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, which caucused on the Johnson selection, said Michigan would have preferred others to Johnson but felt it would be futile to buck Kennedy's choice.

Thinks It Mistake

"The Michigan delegation feels nomination of Johnson is a mistake," Williams said.

Robert Nathan, head of the District of Columbia delegation, first decided to put up the name of Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota against Johnson. But Freeman told Nathan he did not want his name entered.

Johnson, in agreeing earlier to accept Kennedy's bid to run with him, had pledged support for the party platform which includes a strong civil rights plank.

Nevertheless, there was grumbling in the California and Wisconsin delegations among others.

It was 11:28 (EDT) when the call of the states began for the picking of the vice presidential nominee.

Nominated by Lawrence
Alabama, first on the 11st, promptly yielded to Pennsylvania so Gov. David L. Lawrence of the Keystone State could put up Johnson.

Lawrence did so with a declaration that Johnson has been the "strongest Democratic leader in the history of the U. S. Senate."

In another development, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington—who had hoped for the vice presidential nomination—said he was considering whether to become the Democratic national chairman. Paul M. Butler is resigning this post.

Religion, Age

On the religious angle, there was another sort of balance offered in the Kennedy-Johnson ticket. Kennedy is a Roman Catholic. Johnson is a member of the Christian Church.

On the point of age, Kennedy is 43 and Johnson 51. Johnson had been among those who had suggested that the man from Massachusetts needed more maturity.

Kennedy's selection had yet to be ratified by the convention at Thursday's session.

It is customary for presidential nominees to name their vice presidential partners, while letting it appear that the convention was making the choice.

Until Thursday Johnson has been maintaining that he would not be interested in taking second place.

Element of Surprise

There was an element of surprise both in Kennedy's beckoning to Johnson to come to his side for the political campaign ahead and in Johnson's acceptance.

Some of Kennedy's lieutenants have shown little love for the lanky Texan, who tossed around some rather bitter words in trying to box the Massachusetts senator off from the presidential nomination.

Heated Campaign Appears Certain

By Jack Bell

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It will be hot and heavy on the firing line if, as seems certain, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Vice President Richard M. Nixon tangle in the presidential campaign.

Kennedy walked away with the Democratic nomination Wednesday night. Nixon will have to wait until about July 27 for the Republican nomination he fully expects to get.

If this happens, the country will have a choice between two men who are younger than average to lead it in a world beset by Communist missile-rattling and exploding nationalism in underdeveloped areas.

These are determined young men. Unexcited efficiency marks their actions. Cold calculation directs their political courses.

Neither is much of an orator. Both speak better off the cuff than when bound to a formal prepared text.

Both will have smoothly working organizations.

Apart In Beliefs

But while they are much alike in their methods, they are apart in their beliefs on how to attain what must be their common objective—a secure America taking the lead in efforts to keep the world from destroying itself.

With Kennedy and Nixon as the nominees, the campaign appears more likely to be fought out on issues.

In the match of personalities, Kennedy probably has somewhat greater crowd-warming ability. Yet Nixon is no tyro in this respect.

Kennedy's youthful appearance at 43 obviously is going to be used against him by the Republicans. Nixon, who is 47, can be expected to stress the experience he has gained as vice president in dealing with world figures Kennedy has not had the opportunity to meet.

Kennedy will be running on a Democratic platform conspicuously more liberal than some of his Senate votes have indicated he regards himself.

Free Interpretation

But, as with past nominees, Kennedy would be free to interpret platform statements as he chooses.

The Massachusetts senator and Nixon obviously face a Herculean campaign task.

Almost no state can be overlooked.

Nixon has high hopes of carrying several Southern states and will campaign actively in that area. Kennedy has notice he cannot take the South for granted and may have to give it much of his time.

Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion is variously regarded as an asset and a liability to him. His supporters say he will get votes from Catholic Republicans which will offset those he may lose to Protestants.

One thing is certain: Nixon won't publicly raise the religious issue.

Plenty of those around the fringe of the Republican party are likely to do so.

Kennedy has spoken out on this question several times in the last few months. He has said he has no religious commitments that would interfere with his free exercise of judgment in the presidency.

Firms Paid Bast For Use Of Name

NEIL J. BAST, head of D. F. Bast Inc., testified in Harrisburg Wednesday that his firm received three percent of revenue paid three other trucking companies for hauling cement.

Testifying before the Public Utility Commission, Bast said the three firms had used the Bast name on their own trucks and had used their own men.

He testified the money was paid under separate agreements with Chemical Tank Lines, Inc., Downingtown; E. Brook Matlack, Philadelphia; and Schwerman Co., of Universal, near Pittsburgh.

Legality Questioned
The legality of the agreements has been questioned by three other trucking companies with cement hauling rights and four cement transporting railroads.

The complainants also hold that the Bast permit does not permit it to haul bulk cement from Lehigh Valley mills. Bast claims it does under a certificate allowing hauling of "building materials."

Under the Matlack agreement, Bast said his firm served "shippers which Matlack had filed for permanent authority to serve."

Bast said the operation under the three agreements was substantially identical. Besides receiving three percent of the revenue, he said, "we are reimbursed for our expenses."

Favoritism Charged
The applications of Chemical Matlack and Schwerman for permission to carry cement were recently rejected by the PUC. At that time the PUC rejected a number of other applicants.

It voiced a "strong suspicion" that manufacturers were in concert with a group of favored truckers to monopolize the bulk-cement business.

Carl Helmetag, spokesman for the complainants, asked the commission to issue cease and desist orders naming the four firms.

He contended that the arrangements between Bast and the other three truckers were illegal and asked the commission to "take whatever action may be appropriate in the way of penalties."

Frederick L. Kiger, attorney for Schwerman, objected to the proposal. He said the agreement had been terminated and the order would be unnecessary.

Vote Slated July 21 On Wheat Quota

POLLING places for the July 21 referendum on marketing quotas for the 1961 crop of wheat were announced yesterday by David H. Griffith, chairman of the Monroe County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Growers eligible to vote in the referendum will be those who will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain in 1961 (except growers taking part in the feed wheat program).

The wheat quota ballots may be cast on Thursday, July 21, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Chestnuthill High School, Brodheads-ville.

Monroe County's wheat acreage allotment for 1961 is 2,332 acres, Griffith said. This is the county's share of national wheat allotment of 55 million acres.

The allotment will be apportioned to wheat-producing farms by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Each farmer will be mailed an official notice of his allotment before the July 21 referendum.

Griffith points out that at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum must approve the quotas if they are to become effective. Under quotas, marketing penalties will apply on "excess" wheat resulting from noncompliance with the farm's wheat acreage allotment, and price supports will be available on the crop at not less than 75 percent of parity—the exact rate to be announced before the vote.

On the other hand, if more than one-third of the voters oppose the quotas, there will be no restrictions on wheat marketing, but allotments will remain in effect as a condition for price support at 50 percent of parity as directed by law.

Wheat growers voting in a referendum each year have approved marketing quotas for the past seven wheat crops.

Nothing--Just Relax

Why are some men like this, Abby? And what can I do about it?

Dear Exasperated: Some men feel that if they don't know everything there is to know, it is a reflection on their intelligence. Let him drain his gasoline tank and wear out his tires. It's cheaper than draining your energy and wearing out your patience.

Dear Abby: I married into a family that's one for the books. My husband, fortunately, is nothing like the rest of the clan. But we live in the same city and are constantly being thrown together at family gatherings?

Abby, I have never heard people rip others apart the way his mother and sisters do. One afternoon I sat there and counted. They talked about 42 people and didn't have a good word to say about any of them. All of it was hearsay and gossip of the nastiest kind.

I am new in this family and want them to like me—but I just can't take it. Should I

READY TO BUST
Dear Ready: If you love your husband, forego the pleasure of telling them "what you think of them." Instead, each time they start to cut someone down, chime in with a defending word of praise. (You can always find something good to say about everyone.) When they relate nasty gossip, ask for "proof." This will slow up their knifing sessions, and they'll soon realize that you are a poor audience for their malicious tongues.

Dear Abby: Please print this for mothers of daughters. Some time ago we all laugh-

I wish I would have paid more attention to that, Abby, because our lovely 17-year-old daughter was never out past 9 on school nights or midnight on week-ends and we thought she was safe. Construction Of School Progressing On Schedule

A JOB CONFERENCE for the new Pocono Mountain Joint School in Swiftwater, was held this week, with members of the school board and contractors present.

Erection of the foundation and structural steel is progressing as scheduled, it was reported, and underground plumbing lines are moving ahead and in some places are ahead of schedule.

Other business was the approval of specifications for bids on furniture to be used in the new school. The directors also approved the marker to be placed in the school with the names of the school authority, present school board and other executives.

The board voted to install new lights in the sixth grade room of the Paradise Township Elementary School. The contract was awarded to Johnson Electric at a bid of $300.

The application of Mrs. Donald Brown was received and taken under consideration for the position of school librarian in the new school.

Noted also was the requirement that one pressurized dry fire extinguisher must be installed in all school buses before the buses are inspected Aug. 18 and 19 by state police.

The matter was referred to the transportation committee for action.

Search Party Finds Body Of Airman

BANGOR — The body of M/Sgt. Samuel Nittle, 40, a local resident prior to his enlistment in the Air Force, was found by a searching party in Ecuador Wednesday.

He was aboard a U. S. Military Transport plane which crashed Monday.

Nittle, son of Mrs. Angeline Nittle Teveri, 237 N. Fifth St., and the late Samuel Nittle, was crew chief of the plane in which he died.

His brother, Al of Roseto, said he received a telephone call from his brother's wife, Helen, saying the body had been found. Mrs. Nittle and her two children are in Bogota, Columbia, where Nittle was attached to the U. S. Embassy as crewman of an official plane.

In all, 18 persons, four of them crewmen, perished in the crash on a 14,000 foot peak of the Andes Mountains. Nittle's body will be returned to the U. S.

Safety Billboard Struck By Auto

STATE POLICE from the Stroudsburg barracks arrested Thomas J. Joyce Jr., 24, of 54 Spangenberg Ave., East Stroudsburg, yesterday on a charge of reckless driving following an accident at the south side of Foxtown Hill.

Investigating officers said that Joyce was traveling north on Route 611 at approximately 4:30 a.m. and ran off the road to the left and down a 28-foot embankment, striking a billboard. There were no injuries. Damage to the car and sign was estimated at $1,350.

The sign struck was one welcoming drivers to Pennsylvania and urging them to drive safely.

Ike Approves Million For Bear Creek

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Eisenhower Thursday signed the 1960 water projects authorization bill. It is similar to bills he vetoed in 1956 and 1958.

This year's bill authorizes future construction by Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau of about 130 projects involving a cost of approximately $1,400,000,000.

The measure was passed by Congress after consultation with Budget Bureau officials and after some projects and provisions objectionable to the Administration were removed.

The bill signed authorizes Congress at some future time to vote appropriations for the individual projects.

Pennsylvania projects authorized in the bill:

French Slayer Is Released

MARSEILLE, France (AP)—Gaston Dominici, 83, convicted of the senseless slaying of British wartime nutrition expert Sir Jack Drummond in 1952, was freed from prison Thursday.

Fading in mind and body, the old peasant went to the farm of his daughter Rose, not far from where Drummond, his wife and daughter were shot and bludgeoned to death.

Dominici was sentenced in 1954 to die on the guillotine but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Motorists Asked To Watch Blind

HARRISBURG (AP)—A special plea to motorists to be alert for blind pedestrians was issued Thursday by Public Welfare Secretary Ruth G. Horting.

Mrs. Horting said the number of blind persons walking the streets and highways is at its peak during the summer months. A 30-year-old state law, she added, gives blind pedestrians the right of way over motor traffic.

Thruway Injunction Dissolved

A TEMPORARY injunction prohibiting J. H. Beers, Inc., from blasting within a 75-foot radius of the home of Floyd Bachman, 49 Broad St., Stroudsburg, was dissolved yesterday at the request of Bachman's attorney.

Edwin Krawitz, representing the plaintiff in the action, told Judge Fred W. Davis in Monroe County Court that an "amicable solution of the matter" had been reached between the two parties.

Krawitz said the Bachmans were satisfied with the solution. Judge Davis then ordered the case discontinued pending settlement of damages by Beers' insurance agent.

Represent Contractor Charles Bensinger, Jr., and George T. Robinson, both Stroudsburg attorneys, represented the Beers firm.

Beers is contractor for the second and third stages of the Stroudsburg Thruway, which will take Route 611 traffic through the twin boroughs when completed.

Krawitz asked for a temporary injunction Monday after a blast last Friday damaged the Bachman home.

68 Pennsy Votes Cast For Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Here's how Pennsylvania delegates voted on the one and only rollcall for the Democratic presidential nomination (each of the 162 delegates had one-half vote):

LM-Made Light Comes Back As War Surplus

EVER hear about the man who went to Mexico to see the Volcano, and while he was there his back yard erupted? Or the time Jack Luckey of Stroudsburg requested a company in Nebraska dealing in war surplus to ship him a large light, only to find it had been made by Line-Material in East Stroudsburg?

Luckey and Charles Locke, co-owners of the now-being-bought Skyline Drive-In Theater at Eagle Valley Corners were looking through a catalogue when they saw the light advertised for $15.

Deciding it would look well atop their ticket booth at the drive-in, and not knowing its size, they ordered it. When it arrived Tuesday it was a full scale airport landing light — flashing type.

Inside was a Line-Material tag that said it had been made on July 13, 1945, only one day short of being 15 years old.

The light had been shipped to Yokota Airfield in Japan after the war, shipped to Nebraska as surplus, and returned home to guide not airplanes but cars into the new drive-in expected to open next week.

"Darned if I know where I'll use it," said Luckey, "the thing weighs 55 pounds, but I'll use it someplace."

"Funny thing," G. L. Smrz, Line-Material plant manager said, "is that the lights are in surplus in Massachusetts, Jersey City, and Allentown. He might have even been able to buy one here."

LUCKEY LIGHT — George Harps, 16, (left) and Jackie Luckey, 6, inspect light manufactured during World War in East Stroudsburg. Jackie's father, Jack Luckey, and Charles Locke, who are about to open new Skyline Drive-in in Eagle Valley Corners bought light from surplus company in Nebraska after it had been shipped to Japan after the war.

Whose Responsibility?

One of the tinier campaign issues will be the recent Congressional committee report recommending that the Government take a hand in the fight on juvenile delinquency.

What is asked is a mere $2.5 million to "help" the states educate more social workers. This isn't much money, but nobody has shown that towns with more social workers have less delinquency.

It is well known that once the Federal Government takes jurisdiction in a situation, everyone else starts shedding any responsibility for it. In the case of juvenile delinquency, this can be particularly touchy.

So far, everyone is guessing as to why today's teen-agers get into more trouble than yesterday's. The blame has been credited, by various observers, to the home, the school, the church, and the faceless scapegoat, "society."

Whatever shape our "society" is in today, the government is largely responsible. If the responsibility really lies there, the cure would seem to be to reverse the trend of the last couple of decades which has been to more government responsibility as a resulting decline in local and individual responsibility.

If the trouble lies in the school, the church or the home, federal action would not only be difficult but objectionable. Americans would not stand for an educational Gestapo in dictating discipline in our schools. Churches are, and should continue to be, immune from governmental interference.

And would Americans tolerate federal interference in the home? Should Washington dictate the time Junior should go to bed, the amount of his allowance, what he should be told about the birds and bees and whether Pa should paddle him when he sneaks a cigarette?

Juvenile delinquency is an increasing problem all over the world. The first step toward reducing it must be to study its causes.

As it occurs among rich and poor, in cities and in rural areas, the causes doubtless are complex. It is cause for alarm for Washington to seek jurisdiction. This may lead to preemption of the rights of the church, the school and the home.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Covering The News

Reporters attending public meetings are sometimes cast in the role of "sitting ducks" for public officials with private axes to grind.

As impartial observers with a responsibility to report matters of public interest and, in some cases, to interpret the activities of these officials, newsmen are oftentimes charged either with "playing up" or with "glossing over" items of public business involving a particularly sensitive officeholder.

At the conclusion of a two or three-hour meeting, a reporter must review voluminous notes, trying to pick out the items of significance or interest to the general public. If he places emphasis on the remarks of a thin-skinned servant of the people, or doesn't quote verbatim the repetitious phrases of a long-winded statesman, beware the next occasion for public utterances.

Just as the typical law violator cries out, "I was framed" or "I didn't do it," these particular minions of public trust use their offices to claim, "I didn't mean to be quoted," or "You're trying to make me look bad."

Newsmen have no status as officeholders—and only the literary tradition of membership in the "fourth estate"—but they can rely on the one sure defense against such grandstand plays: The truth never hurts the innocent.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

War Of Attrition

Whoever is elected President of the United States in 1960 will face the crucial problem of Russian opposition to the United States and will have to handle it in the same way.

It will not matter at all whether a Republican or a Democrat is elected; he will be forced by historical necessity to respond to the Russian challenge. The difference between one man and another can only be how fast he is in replying to Russian initiative.

Much will depend upon who is Secretary of State. The Cuban fiasco proves beyond question that some of the deskmen in the State Department cannot be trusted. A knowledgeable Secretary of State cannot be deceived by deskmen.

A well-informed President cannot be confused by deskmen. Fortunately the candidates of both parties are well-informed men.

The Russians now have a new purpose: they will contain the United States. They will seek to establish Soviet satellites in Cuba, Mexico, Venezuela and possibly Panama. They will seek to break up NATO.

This is a war of attrition. The objective of Soviet Russia is to defeat the United States without fighting a war. It can be done. It can be done by three devices:

1. By destroying the value of the dollar in world markets;
2. By stimulating riots in NATO and Allied countries. Student riots have already taken place in Korea, Japan, Turkey, Cuba, Italy, and will occur wherever Communist parties succeed in organizing them. One took place in San Francisco.
3. By mass disturbances in African, Asiatic and Latin American countries, so that there is constant disturbance without actual war.

This program is now in being. It is the successor program to "The Spirit of Camp David" which was the result of Khrushchev's visit to the United States. "The Spirit of Camp David" was a curious policy: it implied a deal between President Eisenhower and Nikita Khrushchev for the domination of the Earth.

Apparently President Eisenhower did not understand that there was such a deal. Khrushchev became bitterly anti-Eisenhower because he did not understand why Eisenhower was not understood what was talked about at Camp David.

In a word, "The Spirit of Camp David" was confusion throughout — meaningless, purposeless confusion. It has been followed by the new policy of American containment.

Jay Lovestone, who was once high in the councils of the Communist Party and who is one of the most aggressively active anti-Communists in the world, writing for the "AFL-CIO Free Trade Union News," says: "Khrushchev has always met the slightest dissatisfaction in the armed forces with intensified ideological activities and increased Party control especially of the officer corps. Towards this end, an increased number of periodicals have been published since the beginning of the year to propagate the Communist Party viewpoint in the Army."

"Several days before the Paris blow-up, there was held a conference of secretaries of the party organizations in the Army. It was devoted, among other objectives, to the strengthening of party surveillance of the armed forces."

Concerning China, Lovestone writes:

"Of course, there are differences between Moscow and Peking in regard to international and other matters. But these differences are in approach, in respect to propaganda forms, and not over principles. Between Moscow and Peking, there is absolute unity over the ultimate goal of Communist world domination."

"For a number of reasons, Chinese Communist tactics are more rigid and inflexible, more intransigent and aggressive, than Moscow's. Mao Tse-tung's China is in an earlier stage of revolutionary development than Khrushchev's Russia."

"During the comparable stage — 30 years ago — Moscow's international propaganda line also was harsher and harder against the democracies than it is today. In those days it was Moscow which pursued an ultra-left course."

In all this, Lovestone is correct. The Free World has been deluding itself about a split between the Kremlin and Peking. There has never been an indication of such a split. There has never been even a slight indication of such a split.

It is very much like President Eisenhower not being able to understand what is happening in Cuba. What he calls "inexplicable" has never been inexplicable. It has been clear from the very start: Castro has produced a Soviet satellite state in the Caribbean.

Surely we are sufficiently mature in the United States to face facts without doubt and without despair. Only small boys need to whistle in the dark.

The Pennsylvania Story

Catching Up

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Pennsylvanians during the past week have been reading much about the Pennsylvania delegation at the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles under the tutelage and leadership of Governor Lawrence — but what about the home front here on Capitol Hill during the Governor's absence?

Strange as it may seem, on prowling through Capitol Hill offices during the past week — especially the gubernatorial suite — activity seemed to be greater than when Mr. Lawrence is on board!

For one thing the interlude provided a chance for staffers to catch up with themselves . . . The only one officially with the Governor from the gubernatorial secretariat was Executive Secretary Walter Geisley. Two other members of the secretariat were on hand at the Pennsylvania Citizens for Johnson (Senator Lyndon B.) Committee" issued a press release, of which the following paragraph is a part:

"We are extremely well pleased with the enthusiastic interest Senator Johnson is continuing to generate in Pennsylvania. Senator Johnson has delegate strength from all parts of the Commonwealth. Included among Senator Johnson's delegate supporters in Pennsylvania are labor union officials, elected governmental officials and prominent private citizens in both rural and urban areas."

How prophetic was this pre-convention piece? . . . When the first tally of Pennsylvania's 81-vote delegation was taken in caucus Monday, the "enthusiastic interest" generated by Senator Johnson produced — 4½ votes!

Looking Way Ahead — It is clearly evident now that Mr. Lawrence — the old political pro — never envisioned a dead-end convention covering an extended period of time, although he avoided openly committing himself on the subject.

As a point of curiosity we checked his schedule (on Wednesday) and found that this itinerary for the week beginning Monday has been arranged by his nibs — before leaving for the convention:

Monday (July 18) — appointments at his office here in Harrisburg; Tuesday — in Pittsburgh; Wednesday — in Chicago; Thursday and Friday — appointments here in Harrisburg.

The Positive Approach — Truman B. Thompson, veteran full time executive secretary of the House Appropriations Committee which is concerned year in and year out with Pennsylvania's budgetary problems, opined to this reporter the other day that he has come to the somewhat grim (but realistic) conclusion that "budgeting is the science of distributing dissatisfaction uniformly" . . . Any who disagree?

10 Years Ago Prime Minister Stalin said in a radio broadcast he could end the war in Korea if the United Nations would accept Red China as a member.

LeRoy Michaels was the recipient of the Benjamin Rush award.

Bangor board of education awarded contracts to Claude Otter, Allentown, to paint the borough schools. The contract was in the amount of $1,687.

East Stroudsburg Chief Burgess L. J. Kleinle had two conferences with management and labor of Line Material to attempt a back-to-work movement. The employees have been on strike since July 7.

20 Years Ago Joe Bush, formerly with the Eagle Valley Garage, opened his garage in Bartonsville.

New York Yankees were in third place in the race for the pennant.

Miss Laura Seese, Canadensis, enrolled in the summer session of Syracuse University. She was one of the 1,900 students enrolled for the summer term.

Los Angeles but with no official tie-in with the Governor: Pete Wambach of the front office public relations staff went to the convention on vacation time and at his own expense . . . Second was Roy Schafer, the Governor's legislative secretary — and president of the Pennsylvania Young Democrats, also at his own expense and on his own time.

Incidentally, what about general state payrollers who were delegates or alternates to the convention? . . . In theory at least, Pennsylvania's taxpayers didn't pay their way . . . Each paid his own way and took the time on vacation time or leave of absence without pay.

Many may not realize it but the Governor has a fetish about public servants and their work . . . Either work or get off the payroll — and he means work . . . Unusual for an old line professional politico of the old school? Decidedly — but that's the Lawrence outlook!

Post-Convention Chuckle Exactly one week before the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic National Convention held its first poll of candidate support (this past Monday in Los Angeles), the "Pennsylvania Citizens for Johnson (Senator Lyndon B.) Committee" issued a press release, of which the following paragraph is a part:

Yellow Remembered

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.
What's your favorite color? Whatever it may be, I'll bet it is not yellow. Yellow has a very low preference rating.

How ever, you are apt to remember seeing something yellow a lot longer than you can recall an object that was your favorite color.

A peach color, on the other hand, is well-liked by many. Yet it is difficult to remember.

This is the way the mind works:

Unconsciously, without realizing it, chances are that you will recall yellow articles more readily than anything else.

Let me give you an example cited by the Color Research Institute of Chicago:

Ask several persons to look through a window onto a busy street. Try it at your office or your home.

Count Cars While they are looking, count the number of yellow cars and the number of blue cars that pass by. Then ask each person how many yellow autos and how many blue autos passed the window.

I think you will find that if you have counted eight yellow cars, most of the persons will say they saw between 12 and 16.

If you counted, say, ten blue autos, they probably will say they saw only five or six. The Philadelphia trucking executive and professional football club owner, has been zealously courted by all the major Presidential candidates, and may really have determined the outcome of the Democratic nomination.

Virtually unknown outside of Pennsylvania's 81-vote delegation, Clark has played a decisive role in the victory of Sen. John Kennedy and the ill fate of his less successful rivals.

Working backstage with Rep. William Green, powerful Democratic chairman of Philadelphia, Clark engineered the coup that swung more than two-thirds of Pennsylvania's delegation to Kennedy at a crucial moment in the tense pre-convention maneuvering.

At the Pennsylvania caucus

An hour later in his hotel headquarters, Kennedy got the good news that his long wooing of Clark had paid off handsomely — with 64 of Pennsylvania's 81-votes.

How It Was Done — The Kennedy wooing of the unknown but potent delegate from Philadelphia extended over quite a period and included meetings with the candidate, his father, the former Ambassador to England, and brother Robert, his top campaign manager.

The senior Kennedy even invited Clark to visit with him at the family's swank vacation home on Cape Cod. That was done after Representative Thomas O'Neill (Mass.) told Senator Kennedy, "If you want the Pennsylvania delegation, you've got to talk to Jim Clark. He is as powerful in Democratic circles in that state as Representative Green and Governor Lawrence.

Together they constitute the "Big Three."

Senators Johnson and Symington belatedly learned of Clark's influence and sought him out. But it was too late.

Kennedy was importantly helped by catching the fancy of the self-made trucking owner by firm and astute diplomacy in the stormy campaigning that preceded the convention.

In these frays Clark, the chief money raiser of the powerful Democratic organization in Philadelphia, played a key role in blocking a swing of the Pennsylvania delegation to Adlai Stevenson or Senator Symington.

The latter entered the convention maneuvering with important support in the Pennsylvania delegation. But inability to win over Clark lost them the backing they had to Kennedy.

Joining forces with his "good friend" Representative Green, Clark stopped a Stevenson boom launched by Governor Lawrence by flatly ruling out any backing for the two-time Illinois loser.

At a meeting in the Pocono Mountains, Clark told Lawrence and a group of Democratic leaders, "Stevenson isn't good for the party. He can't win, and we are not going to support a candidate that we know is a loser before the race begins."

This blunt pronouncement coupled with Green's opposition to Stevenson ended Lawrence's hopes of "drafting" Stevenson for the third time.

Senator Symington, who was the original choice of Clark and Green saw his chances evaporate at a meeting in New York. Clark, Green and Lawrence listened in amazement as former Presidential candidates for an hour and a half without once mentioning Symington.

That revealing silence convinced Green and Clark they were "on" the wrong candidate.

Shortly thereafter they found Kennedy eager and ready to talk to the delegate whom nobody knows.

Social Security Guide

Q. If a handicapped person who is getting social security disability benefits returns to work, will his checks stop immediately?

A. Disability benefits are not stopped immediately when a disabled person returns to work. The Social Security Administration wants to make sure that he has actually regained his ability to work. Payments may be continued for a trial period of up to three months to a disabled person and his family before a decision is made as to if and when these benefits should stop.

Lions Report On Chicago Convention

THE STROUDSBURG Lions Club, holding its first field meeting of the Summer, met this week at Gap View Inn.

The session concerned the schedule of seasonal meetings, and reports of delegates to the 1960 international convention held at Chicago.

President Dr. Paul Maxwell and past president John Regan and Harold Miller reported on the convention. The services of former International President Monte Knute were lauded.

A get-well card for William Hannas was prepared. Hannas has been sick recently.

Robert Hahn, for the Boys' and Girls' Committee, reported on the project for recognition of the playground citizenship records made by students of the borough schools. Awards will be made in both boroughs in connection with the annual water carnival.

Maxwell stated that there would be no formal meetings during the Summer, but that each meeting would be made interesting. Lester Abetoff will serve as program chairman for the term.

Members considered features at next year's international convention. Financing a band for the line of march in the convention parade was favored.

Maxwell stressed the credit due the Stroudsburg club for presenting the Chilean delegation at the international convention with a check for $250 to be used as earthquake relief.

Abetoff called on all members to work in building the club this year. Summer meetings will be July 6 at the Bartonsville Inn, Aug. 9 at the Delaware Water Gap Country Club, Aug. 23 at the Glenbrook Country Club, and after Sept. 1 at Davids' Hotel in Marshall's Creek.

Bible School To Be Held At Portland

PORTLAND — Bible School will be held for Portland and vicinity in Portland with the Sunday School of each church contributing $10. The school will be held from July 25 to August 5.

General Assembly will be held daily at 9 a.m. in the Portland Methodist Church.

Nursery ages are two and three. The pre-school through third grade will meet in the Methodist Church.

Fourth, fifth and sixth grades will meet in the Baptist Church, seventh through junior high in the Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Forrest Spriggs of the Portland Baptist Church will be superintendent of the junior department and Rev. Charles Cummings of the Portland-Mount Bethel Presbyterian Church will be the superintendent of the junior high department.

Teachers Named

Teachers secured to date are Miss Kay Ribble, Mrs. Lewis Wheeler, Mrs. Forrest Spriggs and Mrs. Shirley Ambrock. There is a need for additional teachers. Anyone who would like to volunteer may contact either Rev. Spriggs or Rev. Cummings.

Miss Mildred Ballian of Philadelphia, who has been a teacher in Japan, will be the director.

Everyone registering before the start of Bible School will receive a special pin.

Cancer Deaths Rise

LONDON (AP) — Deaths from lung cancer in England and Wales totaled 21,063 in 1959, an increase of 1,243 over 1958. Of these cases, 13,181 were men and 2,882 women. The figures are published in the registrar-general's report issued Thursday.

The Daily Investor

Utility Earnings

By William A. Doyle
Q. You highly recommend public utility common stocks and seem especially favorable to Columbia Gas System and New England Electric System. I remember reading that the earnings of Columbia Gas System last year were somewhere around $1.65 a share. Earnings of New England Electric were somewhere near that figure.

In view of these low earnings and the fact that utilities must a share. Earnings of New England Electric were somewhere near that figure. spend a great deal of money for expansion, why do you consider them good investments for people who need a safe and high dividend rate?

A. Let's get the figures straight first. Columbia Gas showed a net profit of $40,377,000, equal to $1.42 on each share of its common stock last year. New England Electric earned $17,095,025, or $1.33 a share.

Columbia Gas paid out $1 a share in dividends on its common stock and New England Electric $1.08. Based on recent market prices, those dividends resulted in yields of better than 5 percent.

While the dividends paid on stocks can never be considered absolutely safe, those paid on solid public utility stocks such as these must be considered as among the least risky. The profits of utilities are not subject to drastic ups and downs. How fast they go up historically, they have been going up depends mostly on the growth of the geographic area in which utility operates.

You're right when you point out that utilities must spend a lot of money to expand. Most of the money needed for expansion has been raised by the sale of bonds and other debt securities. Because of the steadiness of their income, utilities can do this easily.

The interest cost on money borrowed recently is high. This scares many people away from utility stocks. But, because utilities have been borrowing money for years and years, the average interest on their debt is generally low.

For instance, Columbia Gas is paying 5 1/2 percent interest on a debt issue it sold last October. However, its total long-term debt is about $370 million. And its average interest rate on that debt is a comfortably low 4 percent.

Q. Tucson Gas, Electric Light & Power common stock is traded in the over-the-counter market at a price that is somewhat surprising, when you consider its low dividend. It seems to be consistently overpriced. Can you clarify this situation?

A. Sure, this is another side of the utility picture. Tucson Gas, Electric Light & Power is only to take a fast look at the territory it serves to see that it is one of the fastest-growing areas in the country.

The utility is growing with it. It is getting bigger, earning more money and paying out higher dividends to its common stockholders. Right now, the stock is trading at about $32 a share. The dividend was recently raised to 20 cents every three months. On an annual basis, that results in a yield of 2.5 percent.

For a growth stock, that's not a bad yield at all. And this has been a growth stock. A quick look at the record shows that its dividend payout has been increased in every one of the last 10 years. And it was a growth situation even before that.

'The Boy Friend'--Strength From Ranks

By J. P. Savitt
"THE BOY FRIEND," by Sandy Wilson, a slapstick mockery of the Roaring Twenties musical which was highly successful on Broadway, opened at Ross Common Playhouse near Saylorsburg on Tuesday. All the poo-poo-pee-doo and wack-a-doo of this glitter era of the past is represented in this comic-musical that takes place abroad. The leads by Gary Garth and Betty Munro deserve the most criticism.

Miss Munro, as Polly Browne, a wealthy eligible debutante, sang her soprano role well--she has the voice, but at times she held back timidly, perhaps to give vent to Garth's strains, which should have been powerful, but ended miserably weak. Miss Munro, as Polly seemed older than her years cast opposite Garth. He is much too young for the role, although, if a younger female had the lead

It may have been a different story. As a mis-matched team the effect on the audience is sad. The sympathetic interest that should go with the leads was lacking and left the audience disinterested for the most part. What the playgoer does get his money's worth from the rest of the cast. Ronald Knight, Percival Browne, father of Polly, a suave English cosmopolitan, and his former mistress, who runs a French school for girls which Polly is enrolled in, Miss Joanna Simon, as the svelte French "Kiki" were superb. This is a team that has a golden future in theater. Carol Jacobus, who had the same role as Dulcie in the original Broadway show is utterly delightful. Miss Jacobus is a seasoned character who pouts, wiggles and wings her words through angel-bowed lips with such vigor she deserves plaudits in the highest sense of the word. Eugenia Puddu, as a dancer, knocks herself out performing, although less gracefully, if this is possible, than Miss Jacobus. Jim Dwyer, as an elderly Etonian-like milquetoast with a schizophrenic personality that turns romantic when his obese wife isn't around is another Guinness. This man is an actor, an actor, an actor--he alone is worth your pittance for a seat. The play in general is in solid humor. It's strength is in its character roles, choreography, by Jane Benedict, and costuming. The sets, though wobbly at times, are for the most part, creative, colorful, and with the taste of the times. A weak point is the songs. They don't remain in your mind as they do in great musicals. But for an evening of entertainment that gets you laughing again don't miss "The Boy Friend." It runs until July 24.

Food Poisoner Plea Is Denied

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -- A petition was denied Wednesday to reduce the three-year probation imposed on Daniel DiOrto, sea food dealer found guilty last September of adding poison preservative to food.

U. S. Atty. Walter E. Alessandrini told U. S. District Judge Thomas C. Egan that his office and the Federal Food and Drug Administration opposed the petition. Alessandrini said DiOrto pleaded no defense to a most serious offense.

The government charged DiOrto with using sodium nitrate on fish distributed by his firm, Universal Seafood Co., Inc. The poisoned fish was blamed for the death of a three-year-old boy in March, 1959.

Last Sept. 30, Egan sentenced DiOrto to 30 days in jail, fined him $2,500 and placed him on three-years probation. The jail sentence later was reduced to 15 days on a plea of ill health.

Kresgeville

The guest preacher at the morning services of the Trachsville U.C.C. on July 17 will be Dr. Charles Rockel and the guest Adult Bible class teacher will be Raymond Andrews.

The city of New Orleans was founded on its present site in 1718 by a French captain named Jean de Bienville, who was born in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Kinsley
(Coffman & Meyung)

Donna Kay Bisbing And James B. Kinsley United In Marriage

Mt. Pocono—At an 8 p. m. ceremony in the Mt. Pocono Methodist Church, Donna Kay Bisbing, daughter of Gladys M. and the late Elmer S. Bisbing, of 300 Main St., Mt. Pocono, and James B. Kinsley, son of Helen and the late Layton Kinsley, of Pocono, were united in marriage.

The wedding took place July 2, with Rev. James Mort officiating. The soloist, Wanda Altemose, sang "My Prayer" and "Because" prior to the ceremony and during the ceremony she sang "The Lord's Prayer." The organist was Mrs. Joseph Williams.

The back of the altar was decorated with white carnations and the front with white gladioli and pink daisies.

The bride, given in marriage by her great uncle, Fred Haser, wore a white nylon street length dress which featured a pleated skirt, square neck and sleeveless top. She wore a white hat with a nose length veil and carried a Bible with white gardenias, stephanotis and streamers of white ribbons with stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Carol Stiff, of Mt. Pocono, as matron of honor, wore an embroidered white sheath with white accessories. She carried pink rosebuds with carnations.

The bridesmaid, Shirley Kane, of Bartonville, wore a white linen sheath with eyelet embroidered top and white accessories. She carried pink rosebuds with carnations.

The best man was Donald Kinsley, of Pocono, a brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Cloyd Miller and Bob Miller, of Pocono.

A reception was held July 9 at the Mt. Pocono Fire Hall at 8 p. m. The couple went to Atlantic City for their honeymoon and later will go to Florida.

For her going away attire, the bride chose a white dress with matching accessories. The couple will reside in Pocono.

The bride is a graduate of West Pittston High School and attended East Stroudsburg State College and is a graduate of Empire Beauty School, Wilkes-Barre. She is now employed at Matthew and Nicholas, Stroudsburg.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Coolbaugh High School and attended East Stroudsburg State College. He is the postmaster at Pocono.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

Home in Rome: And how wonderful that is—you'll never know until you've been traveling for two weeks and three days without really unpacking. We had planned a side trip to Piza, but somehow by osmosis, maybe—everybody decided simultaneously at breakfast that we wanted to come home.

It was a rapid—but fascinating trip. Never more will I complain about the zig zag trip from Stroudsburg to State College. The trip from Florence to Rome is about the same distance but such zigs and such zags. On one of the zags we went through Sienna, now preparing for its famous horse races. There's a town I've got to visit again and at leisure.

I'd also like to go back and visit that ruined castle at Padicani under whose shadow we had our lunch. The waitress had a gloomy tale of how in the time of Dante the horde of a son who had also killed his brother.

The whole panorama of the tortuous road we had traveled and still had to go was spread out before us—fertile fields and desolate tableland, lonely farmhouses, crumbling towers, huddled villages.

But the nearer we got to Rome the more impatient we grew. Rome is not a city that heralds its appearance—as the statue of William Penn can be seen 20 miles from the heart of Philadelphia, or as the clustering suburbs grow denser as New York nears. Five miles from Rome and you are still in the country with the widely separated farmhouses—the wheat harvest and slow white oxen dominating the landscape.

But we made it. For Robin and Linda, it was a reunion with their friends. For Peter it was the news that he really did have a job with the Olympics—a premise on which he had been most doubtful. O ye of little faith!

For me, of course, it was the letters from home and the assurance that you were all making, but very well, without me. I wonder how the Glen Brook golfers made out at York? And how the sewer is coming in East Stroudsburg? And the Thruway at Broad Street?

Kennedy To Lose Grin; Generalities Not Enough

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

SOME of the problems John F. Kennedy faces now are calculated to wipe off the famous grin. His first post nomination statement is on how to deal with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. No appeasement, he says.

Almost daily from now until election Kennedy and — Richard M. Nixon too, of course — will be faced by new issues and new angles of old issues.

They cannot discuss them merely on the basis of which one is best fitted to handle them. They must discuss them from the standpoint of men who are, potentially, laying down policies for the next four years of American leadership in the world.

Nixon's Position

Nixon has been keeping his own counsel about any major differences between him and the Eisenhower administration, because of his position in it. When they come out, the differences are expected to be slight. Kennedy has announced his attitudes toward many of the more persistent problems. Since American policy has evolved in response to a situation in which she has no initiative, it is not surprising that differences should be more a matter of procedure than of fundamentals, the goals being fixed.

Kennedy is more willing than Eisenhower to spend money for a complete military deterrent force, rather than try to determine which forces to emphasize at the expense of others.

He has some idea, which may prove important when fully developed, about trying to increase communications with Red China even if recognition cannot be granted.

Leading Problem

Standing at the head of America's problems of today, however, is the matter of reestablishing communications with the Soviet Union, chopped off by Khrushchev's refusal to do business with Eisenhower.

Kennedy, writing for the Hearst Headline Service, says the next president must make it clear to Khrushchev there will be no appeasement. Not on Berlin, or any principle.

But sometime soon he and Nixon must say how they intend to reach Khrushchev. Whether there is to be rebuilding of communication from the ground up, or a new attempt at summitry.

Kennedy and Nixon have spoken in broad general terms of African policy. But what do you do in a specific case such as the Congo? Or a specific case such as Cuba?

The two young men now move into positions where they speak as potential presidents; where problems cannot always be delineated in black and white; where grins are inappropriate, and responsibilities are grave. Neither has shown any sign of ducking. They can't.

Coffee is chief crop and export of tiny El Salvador, Central American republic which lies completely on the Pacific side.

Frank Eisenbach Jailed By Police

FRANK Eisenbach, 51, of East Stroudsburg, was committed to the Monroe County Jail yesterday charged with drunk and disorderly conduct.

Eisenbach was arrested by the East Stroudsburg police and was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Marshall Neyhart, East Stroudsburg.

He was committed for 30 days in default of $19 and costs.

Rites Conducted For Mrs. Rasely

FUNERAL services for Mrs. Ruth T. Rasely, 68, of 404 Clermont Ave., Stroudsburg, were held yesterday at 2 p.m. in the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating.

Interment was in Laurelwood Cemetery.

Palbearers were Evan S. Kintz, Horace G. Walters, Earl F. Groner, Lester A. Boushell, Paul E. Ackerman and Willard S. Kintz Jr.
